Granite City sewers could get EPA help

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
Staff writer

Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) officials have "left the door open" to the possibility of providing grants for some of Granite City's sewer breaks.

In a meeting last week, Mayor-elect Von Dee Cruse, Henry Blenick, assistant to the mayor-elect, and Ed Juneau of Juneau Associates Inc., a local civil engineering firm, met with two members of the IEPA to discuss possible funding.

Jim Leincke, a grant administrator for the IEPA, said Friday the possibility of Granite City getting funding for such a project depends on a lot of factors.

One of the factors is the availability of state funds. Leincke said $750 million was allocated to the state in 1970 for water quality improvements, but this fund was completely depleted this year.

He said money may become available later if the State Legislature approves Gov. James Thompson's "Build Illinois" plan. This plan provides for state funds for water quality improvements.

Another factor would depend on Granite City's sewer problem's effect on the local water quality.

Leincke said if the city can prove, through an engineering study, some of the pipes are so collapsed that water can't flow through them, provisions may be made for grants.

He said it is important for the city to show water quality is being affected because grant priority is scored on the project's effect on water quality.

"It may be that some sections of the pipe need to be replaced simply to make the system functional," Leincke said.

He said making the sewer system functional is especially important now that the Granite City sewage treatment plant is becoming a regional facility, thanks, in part, to a regionalization grant from the IEPA.

He said the first step is for Granite City to have an engineering survey done of the sewer system.

"We need to know what the scope of the overall problem is in terms of dollars," Leincke said. "Some subset of this figure (for repairs) may be justifiable."

"But we need to define how great of a problem it is before we make a decision. We left the door open to the

Johnson resigns park post

By VALERIE EVENDEN

The Rev. John Henry Williams will serve as president of the Venice Board of Park Commissioners in 1985-86.

He succeeds in office Arnold A. Johnson, who formally resigned from the park board April 30 to take over as manager of the Venice Park District.

The manager's position will be on a full-time basis for five months of the year and part-time during the remaining seven months.

According to state statutes, a commissioner may not assume both roles, it was noted.

Johnson was re-elected to a two-year term on the park district's governing board April 2. Previously, he had been serving on the board by appointment since January 1984.

The Rev. Harold Wilson is expected to be nominated at the board's May 9 meeting to fill Johnson's unexpired term, Rev. Williams said.

"The board has discussed this appointment. We believe Harold Wilson will be a great asset to the board and his nomination will be accepted at the May 9 meeting," Rev. Williams said Friday.

Johnson, who resides with his wife at 815 Fourth St., Venice, was approved as district manager at the board's annual meeting on April 13 when he submitted a verbal resignation.

In his formal statement to the board, Johnson said, "As you know, I am genuinely concerned about the management of the park district. This is why I am taking these measures."

"I have enjoyed my tenure on the board. However, I feel I can be of greatest service to the board in my new role of park manager."

"I feel certain that the board's decision to hire me as manager will be a great administrative improvement and will help lessen the hassles experienced by many of the commissioners," Johnson said.

Liquor license ordinance may be extended to grocery stores

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
Staff writer

Prohibition ended in the 30s for some, but Granite City's grocery stores are still seeking the legal right to sell liquor amid the clamor of opposition.

The possibility of expanding Granite City's liquor license ordinance to allow alcohol sales in supermarkets has met with varying reactions.

Council attention was brought to dustry have been dropping 1.5 percent per year for the last three years," Hadley said. "As the number of outlets (for liquor) increase, the sales do not increase."

"All that is going to happen is that the pieces of the pie will be cut a little bit smaller. It's going to hurt me and a lot of other small businessmen."

Rick Lesko, owner of Sullies Package Liquor, 2280 Washington Ave., said there are both positive and negative aspects to giving supermarkets a liquor license.

"This just shows me how behind the times Granite City is," Lesko said. "This should have been brought up years ago. Now with DUI laws getting tougher, restrictions may be placed on the number and kinds of places who are allowed to sell liquor."

He said he thinks the only way the city will make revenue from the expansion of licenses is if they open it up to everyone requesting one.

"If they just give it to four stores, they are going to cause four smaller liquor stores to go out of business and the city treasury will not be getting any more money," Lesko said.

He said if the licenses are unlimited, the city will have the liquor license fee money up front from these establishments.

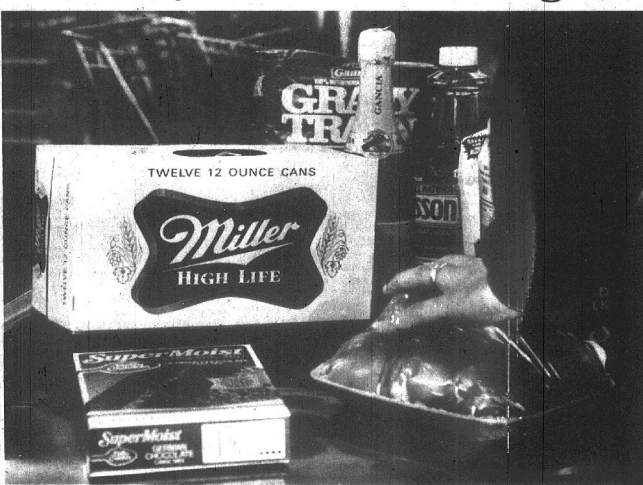

"Let them make a go of it, then if they don't make it, the city still has the license fee money."

State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, said there currently is no legislation in the "DUI package" currently in the General Assembly, that would place restrictions on the types of establishments that may sell liquor.

"Originally, one of the recommendations in the package was the prohibition of selling liquor in gas stations," Wolf said. "But that particular item was not put in the package."

Wolf said the item was controversial and the task force working on the measure felt the restriction could "jeopardize the whole package."

"This does not prohibit any legislator from bringing it in the matter when liquor license requests were received from National Supermarkets, The Kroger Co., Schnucks Markets, Shop 'N Save and Walgreens.

In the past, aldermen have opposed the issuance of these licenses.

Reaction against the measure has been most prevalent among liquor store owners.

Jan Gitcho, owner of Corral Liquors, 3304 Nameoki Road, said he is concerned about what will happen if more licenses are allowed.

"The bottom line is what happens to our children when there is a proliferation of (liquor) licenses," Gitcho said.

"Would any parent or concerned citizen want to make drugs or alcohol easily available? You tell me!"

"Obviously once the grocery stores have the licenses, and the drug stores will follow, and finally the gas stations. The flood gates will then be wide open."

John Hadley, owner of J & J Liquor, 312 Maryville Road, said he is against expanding liquor licenses because it will hurt his business.

"Sales for the national liquor in-than water. We've got enough booze to make a new Mississippi River."

"I think the Christian Community is going to start making some noise on this."

Cicciello said the city should find another way to make revenue.

"If the only way the city can think of making revenue is off people's vices, then we have some pretty uncreative people in City Hall," Cicciello said. "I'd rather see taxes raised on homes than to have the booze come in."

He said the number of liquor licenses in this town (64) already provides one liquor outlet for approximately every 500 people. He noted there is the same ratio in the number of churches to people.

"What are we going to do, have a horse race between churches and liquor stores?"

He said supermarkets have traditionally been family stores and they should stay that way.

Another church leader, The Rev. Henry Schmidt, of St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church, 2301 Pontoon Road, said he is not opposed to the sale of separately for consideration, however," Wolf said. "What it's chances are of passing if it is brought in—I don't know."

Some church leaders also addressed the issue.

The Rev. Jack J. Cicciello, pastor of First Baptist Church of Granite City, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, said he is strongly opposed to the sale of liquor in grocery stores.

"This town already has an abundance of liquor," Cicciello said. "We've got more booze in this town alcohol in supermarkets.

"While I am not for alcoholism, I'm not against people who drink moderately," Schmidt said. "I think guidelines should be enforced to ensure the liquor is not sold to minors, however."

"If liquor was not being sold elsewhere in town I might have a different opinion. But since liquor can be bought at other places in town whether or not the supermarkets get licenses, I am not opposed."

Local grocery store managers say they are seeking the licenses to satisfy customers and boost sales.

Earl Jones, Shop 'N Save manager, 3250 Nameoki Road, said the liquor license would "definitely be a plus" to his store.

"It would increase our sales considerably," Jones said. "It would also aid shopper convenience—one stop shopping."

Dan Byrd, Schnucks manager, 3801 Nameoki Road, said many of his customers have asked where the liquor is located in his store.

"When they ask me, I point them to a liquor store," Byrd said.

He said the Granite City Schnucks store is the only one in the Schnucks chain that does not sell liquor. He said his store has requested a license twice before from the City Council and been denied.

City aldermen seem divided on the issue.

Alderman Sharon Perjak, 4th ward, has outspokenly supported the idea. She points to increased revenue for the city as her prime reason for support.

Alderman Woodrow "Woody" Moad, 6th ward, said he has not decided how he will vote on the issue.

"I'm not sure I like the idea of hurting the small businesses in town," Moad said. "And I'm not sure selling more liquor is the way to make the city or the economy better."

Moad said he would like to review the proposal before deciding.

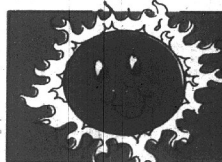

"You've got to consider what is best for the city," Moad said.

Cash bonuses for civil servants called good idea

WASHINGTON — The idea of cash bonuses for federal workers is a good one. It would give civil servants an incentive to find ways to cut costs and improve the efficiency of their agencies.

But the Washington bureaucracy has a way of running a good idea into the ground. And this is what seems to have happened to the merit-awards system in the Commerce Department's Minority Business Development Agency, according to a draft report by the department's inspector general.

"We found serious problems in the administration of MBDA's fiscal year 1984 awards program," the IG wrote in the draft report, which was obtained by our associate Donald Goldberg. "These problems are sufficient, in our opinion, to raise grave doubts about the integrity of the cash awards process in MBDA."

Strong words, perhaps, but the IG backed them with facts and figures that make the minority business agency's bonuses appear questionable indeed. Consider these points:

- Three out of every five of the agency's "bonus babies" worked in offices closely linked to the boss: public information, administration or the director's office itself. The inspector general discovered that the managers of eight other divisions in the agency hadn't even been told about a bundle of supplemental cash that came in three weeks before the end of the fiscal year. More than $78,000 of the supplemental money was given out as bonuses — $64,000 of it to the favored three offices.

- The minority business agency's average bonus was $2,655 — more than three times the average for the rest of the Commerce Department as a whole. And the average of the last-minute awards (given out after the supplemental appropriation arrived) was $3,569, more than four times the departmental average.

- In a time of supposed belt-tightening throughout the federal government, the minority business agency doled out more than seven times as much in bonuses as its original budget allowed. The budget was $16,000; the total of cash awards given out by the agency was $116,814.

- Most of the bonuses weren't properly justified, as the rules require. "Of the 29 awards included in our review, amounting to $102,957, only four, amounting to $10,628, included adequate written justification and documentation for the awards requested," the IG complained. In fact, the justification accompanying six of the award recommendations failed to show "how the accomplishments were over and above what was expected" of the bonus babies, according to the IG's draft report.

The IG considered the failures of the agency's bonus program so serious that he recommended suspending MBDA's authority to issue cash awards until it cleans up its act.

An agency spokesman said he wouldn't comment on the draft report until it is studied and assessed.

RAISINGATE? Sports fans know that one of the principal products of the impoverished Republic of Haiti is official baseballs, manufactured at the Wilson Sporting Goods factory. Each horsehide ball comes wrapped in a little plastic bag with the company logo on it.

But recently, street vendors have been selling Wilson baseball bags full of raisins in Port-au-Prince, and company officials are upset. The bags were stolen from the Wilson factory; the raisins were somehow diverted from a U.S. food assistance program.

American aid officials and a private group that was given the job of distributing 680 metric tons of raisins to hungry Haitians are now trying to figure out how the fruit got into the Wilson bags and the street vendors' hands. The raisins have been selling briskly for 20 cents per half-pound.

U.S. officials are concerned that the black market raisins may be contaminated. Wilson, which is concerned about its reputation, has dispatched company representatives to confiscate the stolen bags and to burn them, raisins and all.

Reagan avoids offending West Germans

The phone has been ringing off the hook since President Reagan decided to go to the Bitburg cemetery. Some people are not happy about it.

Sylvia Grossman called the other day. "I read in the paper the reason the President is going to the cemetery is because he doesn't want to offend the West Germans."

"That's correct," I told her. "Tell me something. What would happen if he did offend the Germans?"

"I'm not sure I understand what you're driving at."

"Let's say the President cancels his visit to the graveyard where the SS soldiers are buried, and the Germans become offended. What can they do to us? Do you think they'll stop sending Mercedes-Benzes to the United States?"

"I don't believe they would go that far, though an embargo of German automobiles is always a possibility. Our main fear is they could get into quite a snit about it."

Sylvia said, "They should

have thought about that when they started World War II. Okay, let's take the worst-case scenario. They get into a snit. We have countries all over the world who are in a snit because of something we've done. One more snit is not going to hurt us. Besides, if the President has to choose between a German tantrum and the feelings of American ex-GIs and victims of the Holocaust, then let him live with the snit."

"It's not just a German snit we have to worry about," I told her. "We also have to concern ourselves with Chancellor Kohl's political future. If the President doesn't go to the cemetery Kohl's Christian Democrats will have a problem winning a May 12th election in North Rhine-Westphalia."

"Are you trying to tell me a local German election is the reason Reagan insists on going to Bitburg against the advice of everyone from the American Legion to the survivors of the Nazis' death camps?"

"It's not just the Westphalia election. The president owes Kohl a lot."

"Why does he owe Kohl?"

"Because the Chancellor took our Pershing missiles." "How can the president owe Kohl for accepting our missiles? They are in Germany to protect him as much as they are to protect us," Sylvia said.

"It's not just the missiles," I said patiently. "Kohl has also spoken out strongly for 'Star Wars.' The president thinks he's a real neat guy."

Sylvia said, "I don't know Kohl, but if he's such a real neat guy why doesn't he let Reagan off the hook by finding him someplace else to go besides a cemetery where Nazis are buried?"

"As I understand it the SS soldiers buried at Bitburg were not real Nazis, but just kids drafted into the service."

"Who said that?" "Chancellor Kohl. You must remember, he has a lot more to lose than Mr. Reagan if the President doesn't visit Bitburg."

Sylvia said, "I wouldn't be too sure of that." "I tried to be as diplomatic as possible. 'I don't think it's your duty or mine to tell the President of the United States what cemeteries he should visit and what ones he should skip. After all, he has very qualified staff in the White House who do nothing but tell him what's good for him and what's bad for him.'"

"Oh yeah? So where were they when Reagan needed them?"

Same environment, but they live longer

Somewhere in the world are people exposed to an environment similar to ours, yet they are living 62 years longer. And their secret is no longer secret.

These "special people" have less large bowel cancer, less colon cancer, less heart disease, less bladder cancer, less prostate cancer, less lung cancer.

These extraordinarily healthy people would have been all over the headlines a long time ago except that they are characteristically conservative, careful, determined that their own statistics be credible.

These people, who have somehow managed to improve both the quality and quantity of their lives are our own nation's Seventh Day Adventists. Their religion since its beginnings has emphasized self-discipline.

Complicating statistical studies are these variables: Only about half of Adventist are vegetarians and the vegetarians are divided into three categories.

Adventists do not smoke, do not drink alcohol, and most do not drink coffee.

Despite inconsistencies among Adventists, the evidence I have examined affirms that their life expectancy exceeds the average by 62 years.

One study narrowed to the consumption of coffee only and covering a period of 20 years revealed an increased incidence of fatal colon and bladder cancer among individuals who consumed two or more cups of coffee per day.

Vegetarian Adventists, generally, have lower blood pressure, lower cholesterol levels.

It may be argued that Adventists behave themselves otherwise. That their religion tends to reduce debilitating emotional stress as well.

Paul Harvey

We can't prove that yet. This we can prove: Adventist women with breast cancer are less likely to die from it.

The risk of death due to ischemic heart disease among Adventists, male and female, is half what it is for the general population.

In essence + and at the risk of oversimplifying + the diet proved best for Adventists is "less fat, more fiber."

How, in an era of fast-food restaurants, does one manage a "low-fat" diet?

Adventists have been known to order a cheeseburger "and hold the burger."

Some restaurants accommodate vegetarians with "stuffed baked potatoes" and a salad bar.

America's 631,000 Adventists have now supplied us with nearly as much evidence about "diet" as we had about cigarettes when your government first sounded that alert.

Yet most of us, including some Adventists, know better than we do.

Understandable + and statistically + lifelong Adventists have a head start toward longer life. But parallel studies reveal proportionate health benefits to the "late starters."

So we can live longer starting now + if we want to.

Letters

Vital family, school roles

To the Editor:

The letter in the Press-Record on April 18 regarding parents' responsibility for the education of their children gave some excellent ideas to think about.

Parents are responsible for teaching their children from the day they are born. The pre-school years are the most formative period of life, in many respects, for every child.

From parents, they see and experience love, respect, discipline, unselfishness and caring for other people.

In the home the child learns how important family can be. Members of the family learn by example the importance of closeness, the fun of being together, doing things together and sharing in taking care of the many jobs and tasks required daily to make a happy home.

When the child starts to school, a whole new environment enters the picture. Teachers become a very significant influence in the life of every child. The old saying is still true: "More is caught than taught."

The example set by the teacher with loving concern for each child and that child's growth supplements what was started during those pre-school years in the home. The values that are planted and nurtured, even in the early years of school, last for a lifetime.

Even when we become very old, we can remember certain teachers who had a significant influence in shaping our lives, challenging us with new ideas, teaching us how to continue learning throughout our lives. We know that we would be far less than we are today had it not been for the confidence and trust they instilled within us.

Parents continue to play a vital role in the life of the child. As partners with the school, together, they can help in offering the best life has to offer to growing minds, formation of values and preparing to be valuable, contributing members to society in the days ahead.

Children should learn the value of money and how to use it wisely and unselfishly. Freedom is important but the responsible use of freedom is essential to building a useful and productive life as a future citizen.

Nothing in this world is as important as our children and what they will become. It deserves the best that all of us can give together.

Dinner dance to aid family help paralyzed member

To the Editor:

Last September I made an appeal to all to help Marie and Ray Marshall in their hour of need when their son, Ron, was paralyzed in an auto accident. Because of the public's generosity, some of the bills were paid, for which they were truly grateful.

After several months of therapy treatment at Jewish Hospital, Ron has been released and is now residing at home in Fairview Heights with his wife, Renee, but has many obstacles to overcome.

One of these obstacles is the expense incurred from the therapy treatment that the insurance company is not obligated to pay, and also the necessity to make modifications to his small home to accommodate his needs.

Friends and relatives of the family are helping to sell tickets to a benefit dinner-dance that will be held at Augustine's in Belleville on June 1.

Once again I am appealing to people's generosity and am hoping everyone who wants to help Ron and his family will contact the following people for tickets: Irene Hatscher, 931-3781, or Paula Borg, 931-8228.

Contributions may be sent to the American Heritage Bank of Granite City where an account was opened for Ron at the time of his accident.

Enterprise zone announcements expected

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

The Illinois communities which will receive enterprise zone designation this year could be announced by early June.

Patrick O'Grady, supervisor of enterprise zones for the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, said he would guess the department would have its choices made "about three weeks in advance of the July 1 deadline."

The local area applied last fall to the state for enterprise zone designation, and most of the major taxing bodies here have passed tax abatement resolutions to pave the way for the zone.

Tax abatement is the main feature of an enterprise zone. All taxing districts that have passed such a resolution would abate the property taxes related to any increases in assessment of commercial, industrial and manufacturing property in the zone for a four-year period.

The cities of Granite City, Madison and Venice, as well as those three school districts, have passed resolutions.

"Obviously, we approached the major (taxing) bodies first," said Aaron Ridenour, Madison County economic development coordinator. "It is not imperative to the success of our application (that all bodies agree to the abatement), but it is very desirable."

Ridenour also said legislation is being considered in Springfield to increase the number of enterprise zones that would be designated this year from eight to 12.

O'Grady said applications have been submitted to the state for 1985.

Granite City, Venice, Madison are among applicants

"They have come from as far south as Cairo and as far north as Belvidere," he said. "There are none this year from the Chicago area, which could help the other areas."

Both Ridenour and O'Grady said the zones designated in the past two years generally have been successful.

O'Grady said a zone in Decatur has done "very well."

"They have had over 600 jobs created since their designation, and 45 more jobs retained," he said. "The key to a zone's success is local commitment. Just being designated an enterprise zone doesn't guarantee anything. And I think we've seen that in the state. In the first eight zones, there was over $68 million in new investment."

Total figures for the program indicate as many as 4,400 jobs have either been created or retained in zone areas.

Gov. James Thompson signed the Illinois Enterprise Zone Act into law July 9, 1982. The purpose of the act is to foster economic development in depressed areas by inducing private economic development through provision of tax incentives and relaxation of government controls.

O'Grady listed four criteria for applications for a zone designation:

- + Unemployment in the area must be at least 20 percent over the national average over the preceding 12 months.

- + Seventy percent of the households in the area must have incomes of 80 percent or less of the median income for the area.
- + Twenty percent of the population must be below the poverty level.
- + And the population loss in the area must have been at least 20 percent in the 10-year period ending with the 1980 census.

If an enterprise zone is designated for the Quad-City area, an administrative organization will be formed. It would be the "primary clearinghouse for development activities within the zone," according to a summary prepared by Ridenour's office.

It is proposed the mayors of the cities involved and the county board chairman make up the organization.

The major reason for the zone is to get businesses to expand in this area, through a guarantee of no increase in their tax burden for at least four years.

"If the tax abatement successfully encourages economic revitalization within the zone, it would expand the tax bases of the local units of government after four years," Ridenour said.

Venice cable television stringing nears completion

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

Construction of cable television lines in Venice is continuing with a May 15 target date projected by Southwestern Cable TV Ltd. for completion of the project.

Three areas in Venice still remain without cable lines, William W. Rougely, South-Western general manager, advised the Venice City Council last week.

Lack of cable installation in certain sections of the city was questioned at the last City Council session, including a report that Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307 was refused cable television service.

Mayor Tyrone Echols contacted the firm and a reply from Rougely was read at the April 30 meeting.

Construction has yet to be completed in the South 4th street and Venice-Lincoln Technical Center area; Main and Bremen streets and the Kerr Island area; and the American Legion property, Rougely said.

The cable service general manager said, "Construction is continuing in these areas and we now project completion around May 15."

"This estimate is, of course, barring any unforeseen problems with weather, construction or some railroad crossing permits that are pending."

Aldermen reported seeing the cable TV company stringing lines along Illinois Route 3 and in the vicinity of Weber Street during the past week.

"I didn't think there would be any problem, even with the Legion," the mayor said.

The council also voted its support for a Bike-A-Thon to aid the Gateway Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Dr. Alice Purdes, a Venice Lincoln Technical Center teacher and project chairman, said the event will be held May 18, starting at 8th Street and Madison Avenue, Madison, with the route of the bicycles circling the city.

Preregistration is taking place at local schools and the Madison Recreation Center. Participants will obtain sponsors who are asked to pledge a certain amount of money to the Cystic Fibrosis fund for every mile ridden. This was explained.

The Rev. Harold Wilson, a Venice resident and a Madison County deputy sheriff, asked if any local ordinance requires bicyclists to use lights on their machines after dark.

"Large groups of youths are riding down the streets without lights on their bikes, creating a very dangerous situation," he said.

"Before summer gets here, I think we should try to do something about this situation. Also, you can hear these very loud radios playing from one end of the city to the other."

"There are a lot of elderly people and some residents working midnights who can't sleep because of the noise from these very big radios they are carrying around," Rev. Wilson said.

There are city ordinances that cover excessive noise, it was reported.

The city received a questionnaire from the Southwestern Illinois Area Agency on Aging, an agency responsible for planning and coordinating services for persons 60 years or older.

SWIAA is seeking information about area organizations or agencies that serve older Americans exclusively.

Objective of the research is to have a comprehensive resource system for persons who reside within a seven-county area and have need for supplemental service, and to introduce them to that resource.

Claire Smith, a senior service specialist, informed the council.

The compilation of related services is being undertaken to assure that no seniors within the agency's jurisdiction who may need a service fall through society's gaps.

LAVON JORDAN

Madisonian modest about saving life of neighbor

By DONNA KIMBRO
Staff writer

A young man in Madison is credited with saving the life of a neighbor whose clothing caught fire while the latter was burning trash in his yard.

The quick action of Lavon Jordan, 810 Jackson St., after hearing a girl scream, "A man is on fire," is credited with saving the life of Harold Johnson. Johnson lives next door to Jordan.

"I tried to put the fire out with my hands and, when I couldn't, I threw the man on the ground and rolled him over and over until the flames were out," Jordan said.

Another neighbor called an ambulance to transport Johnson to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was treated for third-degree burns to his arms and the lower portion of his body. He remained a hospital patient until April 27. The fire took place on April 11.

Authorities said Johnson apparently was pouring gasoline into a large metal container to help burn trash and it exploded, splashing flames onto his clothing.

"I'm just glad I saved him. If something like this happens again, I'd do the same thing," Jordan said. He was treated for first-degree burns to his hands and arms.

After learning of the rescue, Thomas Gordon, acting mayor of Madison, presented a framed humanitarian certificate during a City Council meeting.

Jordan graduated from Madison High School in 1983. He has six brothers and six sisters. The young hero presently lives with his parents and one sister.

During his high school attendance, he worked through the Comprehensive Education and Training Act (CETA) program for the Metro East Sanitary District and was laid off when the workload slowed there. He recently was rehired.

Jordan said he is "very excited" about working again. He shrugged off any "hero" label by saying that he "just did what was necessary" in helping the injured man.

Middle School concert Thursday

Madison Middle School will present its annual Fine Arts Festival on Tuesday, May 7, at the Middle School.

Beginning at 7 p.m. there will be an art exhibit in the gym lobby featuring the work of the Middle School art students. The art teacher is Sherrell Byrd.

Starting at 7:30 p.m. will be a concert in the school gym. The band, chorus and a dance group will make up the program. The dance group will do a choreographed routine under the direction of physical education teacher Gloria Smith.

Chorus members will be directed by music teacher Don Hargrave, and the Middle School concert band will present a number of selections under the direction of William F. Ledbetter.

Summer classes planned

By DONNA KIMBRO

The Madison Board of Education on Thursday night approved a Chapter 1 type of summer program to be offered at the Blair and Harris primary centers in June.

Wade E. James, assistant superintendent of schools, submitted a summer school update to the board members, noting the dates of school sessions will be June 10-28 from 9 a.m. to noon each weekday.

A maximum of 10 teachers and 10 aides may be hired, depending on the number of students registering for the summer. There will be a 20-student maximum to a class, James said.

He added that a summer school workshop will be conducted June 7 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and the high school summer school program will be announced at a later date.

James said Vocational Career Day attracted 40 students from the Madison and Venice high schools who were guests of the Madison-Venice Rotarians on May 1.

On CAEP Day (Career Awareness Experiences Provided by Rotarians) the students spent half a day with Rotarian hosts and then join the Rotarians at a luncheon meeting. The activities were coordinated by vocational directors Mrs. Harper of Venice High School and Lee Ashby of Madison High School.

Board approval was given for six school administrators to attend a Madison County Administrators Association dinner and program Wednesday, May 8, at the Holiday Inn, Edwardsville.

Dr. Enno Lietz, Public School Approval, State Board of Education, will discuss blueprints for educational reform that are now being debated during this legislative session and could result in many changes.

A request for a boys' spring awards banquet for track, baseball and tennis, from Charles Steptoe, Ronald Crader and Nick Jakich, was approved.

Board members agreed with the suggested field trips planned by Louis Baer, Harris and Middle Schools to be taken this month.

The Middle School band will be in concert at the elementary buildings on Wednesday, May 8, at Louis Baer at 12:40 p.m. and Blair School at 1:40 p.m. On Friday, May 10, it will perform again at Harris School at 3 p.m. and the Middle School at 2 p.m., it was announced.

A letter from Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles thanking the district for use of Blair School in the April election prompted Don Garrett, board member, to ask the members to consider allowing the use of the school and perhaps another building for the November election.

He said use of a home as a polling place is not adequate since the plan is usually for the living room only. "That does not allow space for voters, who often must wait outside for quite a long time," he said.

A bid on providing two items of janitor supplies by Foley Equipment Co., East St. Louis, was accepted. Bids for cafeteria supplies were opened and referred to Caroline Sauer, cafeteria director, to determine the lowest cost.

Purchase of two Lawn Boy mowers from Collinsville Equipment at a cost of $499 for the two, and termite-proofing for the central offices at a cost of $400 were approved.

Superintendent of Schools John Palchiff informed the board that the roof of Harris School is in need of extensive repair and Blair School will be the next facility needing roof repairs.

The board agreed to advertise for bids on a Carlyle roof for the main classroom section of Harris School. It is hoped to have the work completed during the summer months.

A special meeting relating to personnel will convene at 6:30 p.m. May 15 and the next regular board meeting is scheduled for May 16 at 7:30 p.m.

I-255 and other highway projects are getting 'green light' from state

By BILL WINTER

More than $2.2 billion in Illinois highway construction will be in progress during the next 14 months, improving more than 2,400 miles of roads and 785 bridges, described as a record volume.

The announcement Thursday noted that 107 miles of Interstate highways will be rehabilitated at a cost of $170 million in fiscal 1986 (July 1985 to June 1986), and more than $20 million will be expended in the same year to construct three new miles of six-lane pavement and bridges on Interstate 255 here.

ILLINOIS WITH 1,735 miles of Interstate highways and three of the five transcontinental routes (I-70, I-80 and I-90), has the third largest Interstate network in the nation. Many sections of that system are more than 20 years old and are in need of extensive rehabilitation.

For the remaining four-year period of the new five-year plan, a total of 342 miles of Interstate highways is proposed for rehabilitation at a cost of $1.2 billion.

More than $80 million is proposed for completion of I-255, including the second span of the Jefferson Barracks Bridge across the Mississippi River, and for the addition of lanes to the Eisenhower Expressway in the Chicago area.

FOR THE FIRST time, the updated five-year program includes planning and engineering funds for a proposed $125 million highway for Interstate 270 here to Route 287 northeast of Godfrey.

The Illinois Department of Transportation program provides $500,000 in first-phase planning and engineering for this four-lane divided road, known as the Alton bypass.

Poag Road is to be extended for two miles from Route 203 to Route 111 at a cost of $3.1 million, including intersection improvements at Routes 3, 203 and 111.

ANOTHER $1 MILLION is to be spent for bridge rehabilitation and widening of Route 111 at Poag Road and the Norfolk & Western Railway.

and $900,000 will be expended on a Route 111 bridge over the Missouri-Pacific Railroad north of 12th.

Gov. James R. Thompson unveiled the highway news at Springfield, noting that $884 million is earmarked for fiscal 1986 ($837 million federal, $325 million state and $22 million local funds).

For 1987-90, a program of more than $3 billion is proposed to finance repairs on an additional 3,200 miles of roads and 1,000 bridges.

"We have kept the promise to begin highway repairs as quickly as possible."

— Thompson

THE 1986 PLAN, in addition to continuing projects, includes new projects to improve 1,955 miles of highway and 350 bridges.

Work that will be under construction this year, funded from fiscal years 1984 and 1985, includes repairs and construction on 1,412 miles of roads.

It also calls for repair or replacement of 435 bridges.

THOMPSON SAID, "The five-year, nearly $4 billion road program proposed 'Build Illinois' plan, it is the cornerstone for the transportation element of that proposal."

"When the $372 million 'Build Illinois' initiative is added to this year's highway program, it will be the first time that completion dates for such key highways as the new U.S. 31 and the Central Illinois Expressway can be pinned down."

U.S. 31 four-lane work is to link Bloomington-Normal and Decatur and, ultimately, the LaSalle-Peru area. Four-lane Central Illinois is to connect Quincy with Illinois 96 and, eventually, provide an east-west route from border to border.

THE GOVERNOR continued, "I want to emphasize that nearly 85 percent of the proposed $4 billion will be used to fix our existing roads and bridges, thereby protecting our past highway investments."

"This underscores the need for the 'Build Illinois' element to finance construction of new, high-priority highways. (Action on Build Illinois is pending in the Illinois General Assembly.)"

"In 1983, we were faced with more than 3,650 miles of bad highways and 1,175 deficient bridges which were delaying and inconveniencing motorists and slowing our economic recovery."

"WE HAVE CUT the miles of bad roads by 40 percent and the number of poor bridges by 26 percent over the last three years as a result of the state and federal revenue increases provided in 1983."

"We have kept the promise to begin highway repairs as quickly as possible, improving roadways that suffered damage over a considerable number of years. At the same time, we are maintaining adequate levels of funding for highway work in the near term."

"In 1984, a one-year record was reached with $1.1 billion in work started or completed. We are now paying for many of those projects from that record program, reducing the amount of funds available for later programs."

"LESS FUEL per car is being consumed as newer, replace older vehicles, also resulting in reduced revenues."

"Although the rate of inflation has been cut, even a modest five percent annual rise in costs would cause a further decline in the program."

"If we are to maintain the gains made on the highway system since 1983, we will need to continue investing $850 million to $950 million per year in road improvements."

ment of such a center," Vadalabene said.

"Bi-State is not asking for any taxing authority, funding, or appropriation. The project is to find private developers to build and finance a world trade center or to joint-venture or create unlimited partnerships for the project. It will be self-supporting, and funded by private sources."

The center would provide trade services, office space and a trade mart, and would be a foreign trade subzone. It could attract export trading companies to help small and medium sized firms in exporting, the senator believes.

He added, "A world trade center would offer unsurpassed business services such as an on-site hotel, on-site parking, international shops and restaurants, multilingual secretarial assistance, meeting and conference rooms, and dining and club facilities."

World Trade Club, which would offer meeting places and dining rooms for business meetings; a library of about 20,000 volumes; a variety of special services, such as research, advertising, promotion, foreign missions and travel services.

"Trade development and publications would be a part of its services. Newsletters would provide trade leads, world trade developments, import and export opportunities, and information on consular assignments. And there would be business incubators, seminars and courses, arts, cultural activities like art exhibits, and sales programs."

Man stabbed in leg with boy's knife

A Granite City man was stabbed Thursday night when his car broke down in the 2700 block of Dale Avenue.

Thebeau, 2725 Birch Ave., told police that when the auto broke down, he left his wife in the vehicle and returned to his home to get assistance from his brother, Jim.

The two men returned to the Dale address in Jim Thebeau's car, pulling in front of John Thebeau's vehicle to hook up and tow the car. When the hook-up was completed, the brothers went back to their own autos.

At that time, Jim Thebeau was approached by a group of six young people. One of the group, a 15-year-old, requested that he exit the car, saying he owed the youth $20.

Jim Thebeau refused to leave the car and the boy pulled out a four-inch locking-blade knife from his pants pocket. The youth began striking the vehicle with the knife.

Upon seeing the commotion, John Thebeau exited his vehicle and the youth then went back to John's car and began beating and striking it. A struggle ensued between John Thebeau and the youth, resulting in John Thebeau being stabbed in the back upper right thigh. After he was stabbed, he was able to disarm the boy and obtain the knife.

John Thebeau then got back into his car and his brother towed it to the Birch address. Police were summoned and John Thebeau gave them the knife as evidence.

The 15-year-old youth was apprehended on Dale Avenue and a petition was filed in juvenile court to charge him with aggravated battery.

Air show set at Scott

The annual air show at Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, featuring the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds, is scheduled for Saturday, June 22. Gates will open to the public at 9 a.m. for this free event, which attracted more than 150,000 people to the Scott flightline last year.

The Thunderbirds will round out a full day of activities when they take to the air at 3 p.m. for a 40-minute performance. As the Air Force's official aerial demonstration team, the Thunderbirds have been entertaining crowds around the world since 1953. The six-man demonstration team will again perform a sequence of loops, rolls and dives in their vividly-painted red, white and blue F-16 Falcon fighter jets.

"The air show is a great opportunity for the people at Scott to give our civilian neighbors a glimpse of Air Force life and technology," said Col. Louis V. Peini, 375th Aeronautical Airlift Wing commander.

"The show will feature dozens of other aircraft on display as well as activities ranging from rappelling out of helicopters to a performance by an Air Force band."

"The Thunderbirds are traditionally the big drawing card, but we'll have such a variety of things going on that there's bound to be something for everyone," Peini said.

"Most people come out to Scott for the entire day. They make it a family affair."

The big base is located off exit 19A of Interstate 64.

Bi-State is seeking world trade center

Legislation authorizing the Bi-State Development Agency to construct, operate and maintain a world trade center in the St. Louis area to benefit both Illinois and Missouri was passed by the Illinois Senate Committee on Local Government. It is sponsored by Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville.

The proposal would permit Bi-State to enter into contracts with government bodies to redevelop an area for a trade center or other similar projects.

"Both states must benefit from the center or the project will not be developed. Illinois and Missouri are equally important in a world trade center project in the St. Louis region. Illinois is the fourth largest state in the U.S. in exports and our participation is vital to the development of such a center," Vadalabene said.

"Bi-State is not asking for any taxing authority, funding, or appropriation. The project is to find private developers to build and finance a world trade center or to joint-venture or create unlimited partnerships for the project. It will be self-supporting, and funded by private sources."

The center would provide trade services, office space and a trade mart, and would be a foreign trade subzone. It could attract export trading companies to help small and medium sized firms in exporting, the senator believes.

He added, "A world trade center would offer unsurpassed business services such as an on-site hotel, on-site parking, international shops and restaurants, multilingual secretarial assistance, meeting and conference rooms, and dining and club facilities."

World Trade Club, which would offer meeting places and dining rooms for business meetings; a library of about 20,000 volumes; a variety of special services, such as research, advertising, promotion, foreign missions and travel services.

"Trade development and publications would be a part of its services. Newsletters would provide trade leads, world trade developments, import and export opportunities, and information on consular assignments. And there would be business incubators, seminars and courses, arts, cultural activities like art exhibits, and sales programs."

Wolf sponsors bill on computer gifts

Legislation providing tax credits to businesses with donated computers to elementary and high schools has been introduced in the Illinois House by State Rep. Sam Wolf (D-Granite City).

HB 151, co-sponsored by Wolf, would allow individuals or corporations to receive tax credits at 25 percent of the market value of any technical or scientific equipment donated to public or private schools.

Wolf said the concept, modeled after a similar program in California, will encourage new technology and up-to-date scientific training in schools that may not otherwise be able to offer such training due to budget constraints.

"This proposal is mutually beneficial to schools and business," he added. "When schools produce students who are computer-literate, businesses will have immediate access to a greater pool of skilled graduates."

Wilkins renamed

Dr. George T. Wilkins Jr., a local physician and bank director, has been reappointed to the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University by Gov. James R. Thompson. Wilkins' late father was formerly Illinois superintendent of public instruction.

Dr. Wilkins and Ivan Elliott Jr. of Carmi were named to new university board terms ending Jan. 21, 1991.

Area aging agency suspended by state

The Illinois Department on Aging has suspended the Southwestern Illinois Area Agency on Aging for allegedly not fully meeting financial reporting requirements.

From May 16 to Aug. 16, the state will take control of the agency's $1.8 million in federal grants for food and social programs. At a special meeting April 26, the agency's board agreed to the state's request for a work plan outlining how discrepancies will be clarified.

"The Council has advocated a regional approach of cooperation, coordination and the facilitation of comping economic development initiatives on behalf of Southwestern Illinois."

"The Leadership Council believes the unified efforts of the region can more favorably affect area development than a fragmented approach."

"OUR OBJECTIVES are to encourage maximum utilization of the area's economic development resources to enhance the image and promote business investment within Southwestern Illinois."

Regarding 1984-85 accomplishments, Mathias said, "The Council has suggested a variety of area programs pertinent to economic development, including marketing, community development, legislation, labor-management relations, public relations and tourism."

"The programs are not unique, but their development and implementation are, since they bring together the region's leadership to achieve a common goal of economic growth."

"OVER THE PAST several months, coordinated community cluster, Madison-St. Clair and even bi-state economic development initiatives have been organized as a part of these programs to encourage business investment in the region."

"These group efforts have created a high degree of enthusiasm and commitment to an areawide program for development."

"They have demonstrated that the region's leadership can work together to make positive things happen to the ultimate benefit of the citizens of the region."

MANY LEADERS here and elsewhere have joined the program, including Robert Weis, Leadership Council secretary. He is business manager of Bricklayers Local 65.

Vice president is Jack Molloy, manager of the Monsanto plant in Saugeat, and treasurer is Melvin Leim Hall, chairman of the First Illinois Bank in East St. Louis.

SIUE is represented by Lazerson and by Dr. Robert Koepke, the university's coordinator of area development. And SIUE's Rendleman Building is the site of the Leadership Council office, whose telephone number is 932-2156. Koepke and Theodore Mikesell head the Council's community development committee. Mikesell is executive director of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission.

AREA MARKETING has been led by Greg Mudge and the executive director, labor-management relations by C. E. "Curly" Kuldell and Ron Shevlin, public relations by Bruce Campbell, and the legislation committee by James B. Watt.

The group's tourism panel currently is being organized.

Along with the five officers, Lazerson, Mathias, Molloy, Weis and Hall, the executive committee members are Bill Durland, manager of the Shell Oil Co. complex in Wood River, John Fruit, Edwardsville National Bank & Trust Co. president, Kuldell of the Council of Contractors Association, Shevlin, who is business manager of Laborers Local 100 in Caseyville, and William Warren of Decatur, Illinois Power Co. senior vice president.

BOARD MEMBERS include St. Elizabeth Medical Center President

Ted Ellerman, Gary Fears of the Collinsville Hilton, Tom Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer, Ben Johannpeter of Granite City Steel, Central Bank Pres. Drew Karandjef, Attorney Leo Konzen and Belleville Area College Pres. Bruce Wissore.

Among other Leadership Council members are Chairman Melvin Wilmsmeyer of the First Granite City National Bank and Pres. Paul Sodko of Madison County Federal Savings Loan.

How effective has the Leadership Council been in encouraging employment growth and a high level of economic activity?

MATHIAS THINKS there have been many accomplishments since June by various individuals and organizations assisting in creating "development of Southwestern Illinois."

"I sincerely thank all for their investment in what I believe has been a successful regional development effort."

But he points out that the program "is just getting under way. I ask that we all share the challenge of continuing and expanding this unified effort."

Final notice for Scandinavia tour

Scandinavia's four countries, with their intriguing sights, are the itinerary for a summer overseas tour. Pastor Samuel and Lydia Boda announced today. The dates will be July 20 through Aug. 4.

Chief attractions will be the capitals: Oslo, "the Viking capital of Norway at the tip of a fjord," Sweden's Stockholm, "the Venice of the North," built on 14 islands (and the largest and most cosmopolitan of Scandinavian cities), Copenhagen, Denmark, the "fair tale capital," and Helsinki, Finland, with a charm all its own.

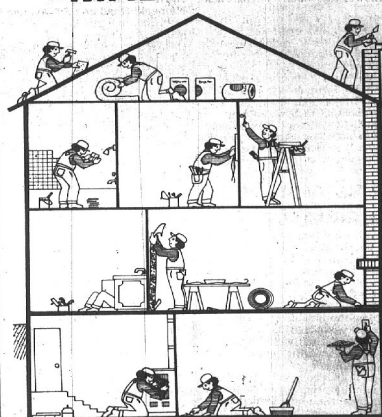

In addition to "in-depth tours" of these capitals, the group will enjoy a cruise on a fjord steamer in Norway and there will be sightseeing in many other Scandinavian cities, such as Bergen, Karlstad and Kinsarvik.

This special itinerary was prepared by the Rev. Elmer and Ruth Mathias, Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, who will serve as official managers of the tour. The final day will be spent at Copenhagen's "incomparable Tivoli Gardens," with a farewell dinner there that evening.

Those seeking information may call Pastor Boda, local representative for the tour, at 876-4559 or 288-5883 for a detailed color brochure. The Bodas have led seven previous trips to Europe and to the Holy Land.

Another trip, Nov. 17-25, 1985, is also offered, this one to the Holy Land. Brochures also are available for this trip via Air France.

Venice policemen recover stolen brass

J. B. George, 38, East St. Louis, appeared April 30 in the Granite City court on a felony charge, based on an informational document issued by the Madison County state's attorney's office. He was released on a $10,000 recognizance bond pending a later hearing.

The charge was filed in connection with an incident which started at 3:35 a.m. April 25 when a Venice officer, patrolling in the 1200 block of College Street, saw the headlights of an auto go on. The car then left the vicinity of the curve on Fox Brothers Road at Car Repair Track No. 6.

Chased by the officer, who called for assistance, the vehicle traveled on Fox Road, Market Street, Bissell Street and West 3rd Street, where two men jumped out. One fled east through yards in the 800 block of Madison Street and the other man ran west into yards in the 700 block.

Officers Gary Wallace and John Kirtz gave chase but the eastbound suspect escaped capture.

The westbound suspect, later identified as George, allegedly ran onto railroad tracks and south on the tracks toward West Washington Street before going into a ravine between the tracks and attempting to hide.

Wallace ordered the man to halt and fired two warning shots. George then walked up to the officers and was transported to the Venice police station by a Madison squad car.

Wallace returned to the area where the vehicle was initially seen and alleged finding two pieces of journal brass nearby. Also noted were several railroad cars on which journal brass was missing.

Terminal Railroad police were notified and said the rail cars belonged to Azcon Corp. The abandoned car was searched and it was alleged that 16 pieces of journal brass, valued in excess of $800, were recovered.

George also was charged with fleeing and attempting to elude police, resisting arrest and three stop sign violations. He appeared in the Granite City court April 25 on those charges and was released on a $2,000 recognizance bond to return this week.

Running back upstairs, she lay down on the floor behind the bed in an effort to hide. She was hiding there when a man accosted her, raping her twice.

Q: You have mentioned the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation several times in the past. The information was not important to me until now. As the result of a sizable inheritance, I have a $100,000 certificate of deposit, a joint certificate of deposit in the amount of $100,000 with my daughter, and another CD of equal size jointly to my son. All of these CDs are with one bank. Will the FDIC cover all these accounts fully, or should I move one or more accounts?

A: The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation coverage on any one account is $100,000. You, your son and your daughter are, therefore, covered completely on all of your certificate of deposit accounts. You are covered for a full $100,000 on the CD you hold alone; your son and you for $50,000, each, on your joint CD — a separate account, and the same holds true for the CD you hold jointly with your daughter. FDIC insurance is just one of the reasons that all of your accounts — CDs, savings, checking, IRAs, etc. are safer at your bank.

possibility of funding."

Leinicke said if the "Build It, Illinois" plan goes through, the IEPA has suggested 70 percent would be an appropriate grant share for the state to offer.

He said his agency will not know what funds are available until the Illinois budget is approved. The deadline for approval is July 1.

Leinicke said there also is the possibility for the city grant to be applied to the regionalization grant. He said if all of the various factors are favorable, the regionalization grant could be amended to include sewer repair monies.

He said a long-range goal for the city sewer problem, however, may be more reasonably answered through dedicating revolving loan funds. This is a plan under consideration by the federal government, which would allocate loan monies to states, who would in turn match these federal funds.

The state agencies would then make the money available to cities at low interest rates.

Leinicke said if this project goes through, the IEPA would have "plenty of money" to loan the city to install a new sewer system.

"In many cases, it's almost as cheap (for cities) to go with the low interest loan as it is to match funds on a grant and pay a higher interest rate on the money borrowed to match," Leinicke said.

Leinicke said this type of loan money probably will not come available until the end of this decade, however.

Cruse said Thursday, he "felt really good" after his meeting with the IEPA.

"They were very knowledgeable about our plant here and I was impressed by that," Cruse said. "They seemed really concerned with the problem."

He said his first priority will be to hire an engineering firm to complete the study the IEPA has requested.

Liquor issue to be discussed

Cruse, would not reveal his stand on the issue.

"I will say that I think this needs a lot of study before a decision is made," Cruse said. "If a vote was taken today, I think it would just be a vote for one special interest group (liquor store owners) or another (supermarkets)."

"We've really got to give this a lot of consideration, so that we no longer are seeing what is good for a particular group, but for the entire city."

A caucus concerning the possible expansion of the liquor license ordinance will be held at 6 p.m., Tuesday, May 21, at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave. The public may attend.

That's Entertainment!

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

There are a few great moments in the life of high school students. The prom and graduation certainly would have to rank at the top of that list. But for music students, the spring concert is the culmination of the year's efforts. Students get to show off their talents one more time for parents and friends.

And who knows? Maybe, just maybe, there is a budding Bing Crosby in the group.

Thursday evening, before a gathering of close to 500 at the Civic Auditorium at Granite City High School, over 100 members of the vocal music department at the high school performed their spring concert.

Despite a few minor problems, things went well and many parents were sent home proud.

"I thought it went pretty good," said Melissa Stinson, a senior who served as an accompanist on the piano for much of the show. "Real good, in fact."

Stinson would like someday to tour with a Broadway show and play the piano. She will be going to Southwest Baptist University in Bolivar, Mo., next fall and will major in education.

She conceded that teaching would be a more likely profession, but still dreams of going out on the road.

"I don't get as nervous before shows as I used to," she said. "I've been playing the piano for 10 years now and have performed on stage a lot, so it's not as bad as it used to be."

Another member of the chorus who is hoping for bigger things is Deron Griffin. Deron has already been accepted at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and has applied for a music scholarship there.

Griffin, who has sung with the Lewis and Clark Community College Boys' Choir, also felt the concert went very well, despite things such as a microphone going bad during the choir's rendition of "We Are the World."

"Sometimes those things end up happening," he said.

Griffin said he might like to perform on stage some day. He will have a double major in college (education and performance).

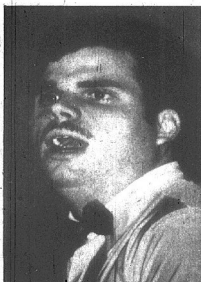

"I guess I will probably end up teaching, but I wouldn't be against singing for a living sometime," he said.

Also, during the Girls Glee Club rendition of that old standard "April Showers," in which the girls were to open umbrellas and twirl them to the music, one umbrella, which apparently had been involved in some heavy April showers, would not open.

The young lady, undoubtedly embarrassed, was able to continue with admirable decorum.

The show concluded with the full chorus doing "That's Entertainment," the theme of the program.

Over 20 graduating seniors were honored at the end by Choral Director Gail Mueller.

1 head iceberg lettuce
3 large oranges
2 large bananas
1/2 cup pitted dates
Core, rinse and thoroughly drain and crosswise into bite-size chunks.

Peel and slice bananas. Slice or halved dates.
Combine lettuce chunks and half the fruit in large chilled serving bowl. Arrange remaining fruit on top.
When ready to serve, toss with Ambrosia Dressing.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.
Ambrosia Dressing: Stir together
1/4 cup lemon juice, 2 tablespoons packed brown sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon powdered ginger until sugar is dissolved.
Gradually blend in 1 cup dairy sour cream. Stir in 1/4 cup flaked coconut.
Makes about 1 1/2 cups dressing.

are soft and topping is golden-brown.

TAKE IT WITH YOU

Take along a salad

Marinating vegetables for salad makes good sense. You can prepare them early in the day yet have a crisp fresh tasting combination to serve at night. This one is perfect as a travelling salad, too. Tightly covered and placed in an ice chest, it's as refreshing for an all-day outing, as it is when just carried next door for a backyard barbecue.

Marinated Broccoli Salad
1 bunch broccoli,
about 1-1/2 lbs.
Almond oil*
Salt
6 Tablespoons white wine vinegar
1 teaspoon minced garlic
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3/4 teaspoon sugar
2 Tablespoons sugar
1/2 lb. mushrooms, sliced
1 small onion, sliced
1/2 cup sliced almonds, toasted
Cut broccoli flowerettes from stems; trim leaves (do not discard). If stems are thick, pare off any fibrous exterior and discard. Slice stems on diagonal into 1-inch pieces. Coat bottom of large, heavy frying pan with oil; arrange broccoli in pan;

sprinkle with salt and add water to depth of about 1/4 inch. Cover and cook over medium-high heat until steam escapes; lower heat and cook a few minutes longer. Turn broccoli with spatula for even cooking and pierce with fork to check degree of doneness. Add a little more water if necessary and cook until broccoli is just fork-tender. Meanwhile, combine 1/2 cup almond oil, vinegar, garlic, the 3/4 teaspoon salt, pepper, herbs, sugar, mushrooms and onion in bowl; add hot broccoli and toss gently to coat thoroughly. Cover and chill at least 4 hours. Serve topped with the almonds. Makes 4
servings.
*If unavailable, use light salad oil.

for 6 to 8 minutes, stirring occasionally. Beans should be bright green in color and crisp-tender.

Remove from heat and drain.
Combine pepper, soy sauce and oil. Sprinkle over green bean/mushroom mixture. Toss gently and serve immediately.
Serves 4.

Fiery Tomato Dip: Combine 1/2 cup ketchup with 1 teaspoon hot sauce and 1 teaspoon chili sauce.

Tender pastry

Measure ingredients precisely for tender texture and easily managed pastry. Blend in the shortening with a pastry blender, using a chopping motion only until mixture is size of small peas. Use cold or ice water and toss lightly just until evenly moistened.
Press firmly together into a ball with hands. Roll in a light motion from center to edges of dough.

Nuts and fruit

Sometimes it is difficult to identify how much fat is in red meats or any other food. For instance, many fat substances are easily recognizable, such as butter, margarine, salad oil or the fat trim on meat. However, some fat substances are also "hidden" or invisible, such as those in whole-grain cereals, nuts, egg yolks, fried foods, homogenized milk and the marbling in meat.

Frozen pasta

All cooked macaroni products may be frozen, but they keep best when frozen in a sauce. A casserole can be kept frozen about 3 months for optimum quality.
When cooking mostaccioli, use a large, deep pot. Bring water to a full boil, slowly adding the mostaccioli and stirring with a long-handled spoon. Drain well.
For baked dishes rinse with cold tap water.
For pour-over sauces rinse with hot tap water and toss with a little softened butter or margarine.
A drop of margarine or oil may be added to the boiling water to prevent the pieces from sticking together.

Chocolate yummy

Add chocolate chips to corn muffin mix or stir cocoa mix into a fresh-brewed pot of coffee to wake up tired taste buds.
Heat ready-made chocolate syrup in a double boiler and spoon generously over ice cream or fresh fruit for a simple-to-prepare sundae.
Whip up a satisfying chocolate shake in minutes. Add milk, chocolate syrup and ice cubes and buzz at high speed in a blender.

Chicken breasts

Sprinkle 3 chicken breasts, halved, boned and skinned with seasoned salt and seasoned pepper to taste; dredge lightly in flour.
In large skillet, saute chicken in 1/4 cup sweet butter until lightly browned. Add 1/4 cup dry vermouth, cook chicken, covered, about 20 minutes. Remove chicken to serving platter; keep hot.

In skillet, quickly saute 1/2 lb. mushrooms, sliced, in butter-wine liquid. Spoon mushrooms over chicken and sprinkle with 2 teaspoons chopped parsley.
Makes 6 servings, about 6 mg. sodium per serving.

Ready in a jiffy

Complement a meal with Cheese Herbed Rolls.
In small bowl, blend together 1 package (3-oz.) cream cheese, softened with 1 1/2 teaspoons herbs and 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder with parsley.
Separate 1 package (4-oz.)

refrigerated crescent rolls into triangles. Divide cheese mixture into fourths and place on wide end of each biscuit. Roll up biscuits according to package directions.
Press top of rolls into poppy seeds. Place on ungreased baking sheet and bake in 375° oven 10 to 13 minutes or until golden brown.
Makes 4 rolls.

Beef Lo-cal

Besides selecting low calorie beef cuts, use some of the following basic cooking tips to limit calories:
Trim outside fat from beef before cooking.
Bake, broil or roast on a rack so beef will remain above drippings.

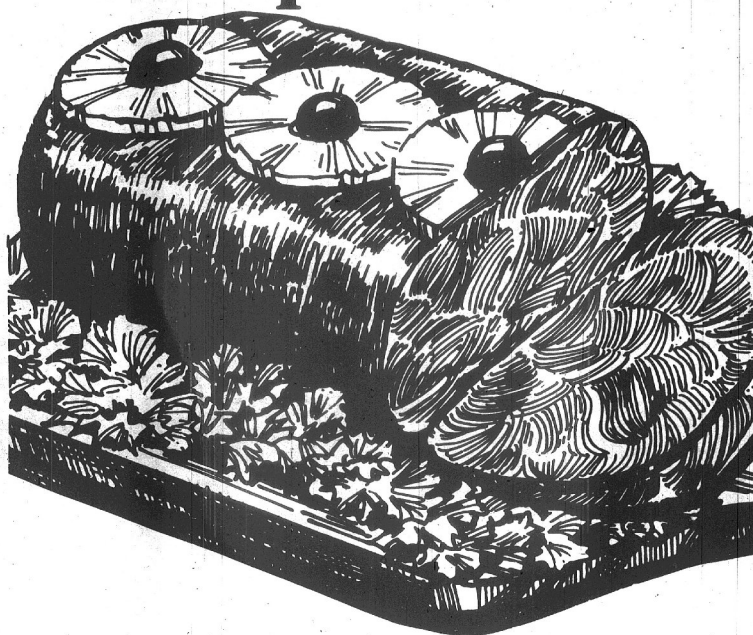

Panbroil rather than pan-fry.
Pour off drippings when browning meat.
Season with herbs and spices.
Limit the use of fat and sugar in cooking.
Use low-calorie ingredients.
Before eating, trim any separable inside fat.

Nader asks consumers in Illinois to mobilize

Warning that Illinois utilities are using "hard-ball tactics" to defeat proposed changes in the state's utility laws, consumer advocate Ralph Nader urged Illinois consumers last week to mobilize in support of a utility reform package pending before the General Assembly.

At a press conference prior to the Citizens Utility Board's first annual meeting, Nader assailed Commonwealth Edison for "spending hundreds of thousands of dollars in company time to coerce its employees" into lobbying against changes to the 64-year-old Public Utilities Act, which expires this year.

"The utilities are clearly worried that consumers will finally have a say," Nader said. "So they're orchestrating an expensive campaign to maintain their control over the utility laws."

"Consumers should fight the utilities' massive lobbying effort by rallying behind the Consumer Utility Bill of Rights, a legislative package drafted by CUB."

Nader was joined at the press conference by Howard Learner, president of the 80,000-member CUB, and several state legislators who endorsed the CUB proposals and vowed to fight for their passage in Springfield.

CUB's Consumer Bill of Rights, if enacted, would seek to save Illinois consumers more than a billion dollars over the next three years. "It would prevent consumers from being charged for expenses associated with power plant cost overruns, overbuilding by utilities or other mistakes directly attributable to utility mismanagement," Learner said.

The legislative package also would seek to simplify and standardize utility bills and alter the structure of rate-setting hearings to give consumers greater representation.

Hundreds of CUB activists from around the state attended the meeting, which included a keynote address by Nader. Also speaking was former Illinois Commerce Commission member Dan Rosenblum, who criticized Illinois' utility ratemaking process.

Coal gasification to continue locally

Release of $2.68 million to help assure continuation of the KILnGAS coal gasification project at East Alton was announced Tuesday.

The new state funding will support the first stage of a program which will analyze data acquired from operation of the KILnGAS system during 1984.

The funds also will help prepare the gasifier for further operation to demonstrate the commercial feasibility of the Allis-Chalmers ported kiln gasification process.

In announcing the funding approval, Gov. James R. Thompson said the action is an important step in development of the KILnGAS technology.

"Development of environmentally sound processes to convert abundant high-sulfur Illinois coal to a clean fuel for energy production demands the commitment of the state," Thompson said.

"This process has already been shown to be technically viable. The work that will be undertaken now is aimed at making the system more efficient and economical, so it can ultimately be a commercial success."

The KILnGAS system produces a clean, low-Btu gas, burned in an Illinois Power Co. boiler for electric power generation.

The gasifier, capable of processing up to 600 tons of coal per day, was specifically developed to highlight the use of high-sulfur coal in utilities and large industries.

State Senator Sam Vadala, of Edwardsville, the legislative architect of the KILnGAS project, said, "The governor's approval of this new funding will guarantee that a valuable coal development program will go forward, and also will help protect an important source of employment in our area."

"KILnGAS will both open doors for new employment opportunities in Illinois and reduce our reliance on expensive imported fuels."

The state has provided $21 million since 1980 for project construction and operation through the Department of Energy and Natural Resources' Coal Bond Fund and Coal Technology Assistance Fund, both established to support coal research.

Other funding participants in the $175 million KILnGAS venture are the Allis-Chalmers, the Electric Power Research Institute, Illinois Power and 11 other public utility companies.

Bad-check legislation praised

A new bill that would revert the costs for a bad check or draft exclusively to its writer has won the approval of retailers throughout the state.

Under current Illinois law, a merchant bears not only the loss incurred by a bad check, but also the burden of any service charges associated with the draft.

HB 487 would place this burden solely on the drawer of the check which is dishonored for insufficient funds or because the drawer does not have an account with the drawee.

"Accepting personal checks is a service that merchants offer to customers for their convenience," said David F. Vite, executive vice president of the Illinois Retail Merchants Association. "Bad checks, however, place a great financial burden on retailers. This bill would insure that the burden of bad checks falls exclusively on those passing worthless paper. Honest customers will not need to subsidize those who write bad checks."

The IRMA also endorses:

A new bill expanding the Illinois Criminal Code's definition of deceptive practices. SB 297 specifies that a person who knowingly writes a bad check upon receipt of a bill, statement, invoice or request for payment. This practice would be punishable as a Class A misdemeanor, or a Class 4 felony upon repeated conviction. Knowledge of the crime is defined as failure to have sufficient funds on deposit or in credit, or as having the check in question dishonored twice at least seven days apart.

+ HB 684, amending the Unemployment Insurance Act to treat an order or court supervision similarly to a felony or theft conviction. Current law requires a conviction before an employer can be relieved of any financial responsibility for unemployment insurance costs.

+ SB 309, disallowing the continuation of an employee's coverage under a group health insurance policy when that person has been discharged for a work-related felony or theft for which the employer was not responsible.

+ HB 579, requiring the state Department of Employment Security to refund unemployment insurance overpayments back to an employer within 60 days. Late reimbursements would bear interest at 1.5 percent per month.

Motivation subject

Motivation will be the topic at a free workshop to be presented Tuesday, May 7, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The workshop will focus on goal setting, time utilization and the power of positive thinking.

Leonard Van Camp, professor of music and director of choral activities at SIUE, will conduct the workshop.

The workshop will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Cahokia/Kaskaskia Room of the University Center. It will end at 3 p.m.

The workshop is presented as part of the Student Activities Leadership Training Series, designed to provide assistance to campus organizations and the general public.

For additional information about the workshop, interested persons may contact the Student Activities Office at 1-692-2686.

Leucadia increases stake in steel firm

Leucadia National Corp., a New York financial company that fought a later-abandoned merger between National Intergroup Inc. and Bergen Brunswig, has purchased 373,000 NII shares in the open market for $9.1 million.

This increases Leucadia's holdings from 7.2 to 9 percent of NII's 20 million shares.

Honored as a leader in life insurance sales

Cheryl Crawford, Shelter Insurance Co. agent in Granite City, has been honored as one of the company's top producers in life insurance sales.

She earned the award by selling life insurance worth at least $1 million in 1984 and meeting other corporate standards as well. Fewer than 10 percent of Shelter's 1,250 licensed agents qualified for the honor last year.

Crawford has been with the firm since 1981 and has qualified for company awards conferences in 1983 and 1984.

Entertainment

Kiel Auditorium to present the Muppet Show

Kiel Auditorium will be the site for the premiere edition of seven performances of the Muppet Show on Tour in St. Louis.

This will be the first time in 15 years that a family show has been hosted by Kiel Auditorium and "red-carpet" preparations are underway to welcome those international superstars, Kermit the Frog, Miss Piggy, Fozzie Bear, Rowlf, Gonzo, Dr. Teeth's Electric Mayhem Band and the whole Muppet gang.

This new musical arena family show, "The Muppet Show on Tour," is produced by Vee Corp., the company which also produces Sesame Street Live, starring Jim Henson's Muppets. It is being promoted by Dome Productions of St. Louis. The show is coming here after 25 straight sellouts in New York.

These Muppets aren't puppets. They're lifelike, alive and on stage. The show-within-a-show structure opens as the bigger-than-life Muppets are captured in not-so-promising rehearsals and Directors Kermit finds himself in the middle of backstage mayhem over top billing with Muppet megastars Miss Piggy, Gonzo and Dr. Teeth. Somehow, the harried host tactfully tends to their temperamental egos and, in true theatrical tradition, the show goes on.

There's something in the show for everyone, including the big furry characters and music and songs for the children, the "rapping" Fozzie Bear breakdancing, Dr. Teeth and his band with Animal with their rollicking version of "Frodo Mary" for the teens; the subtle Muppet humor for adults; and the hilarious criticisms and musical numbers of crusty Statler & Waldorf as they soft shoe their way into the hearts of the "senior" members of the audience.

For everyone, there is "The Star" — Miss Piggy in an underwater ballet as Queen of the Mermaids. The show is a musical two-act story lasting an hour and 45 minutes. Performance times are May 16 at 7:30 p.m., May 17 at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., May 18 at noon and 4 p.m. and May 19 at 1:30 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Tickets are on sale at the Kiel

Opera Theater announces its tenth anniversary season

May 5, 1985/Page 8C
Granite City Press-Record/Journal Sunday

Opera Theatre's spring season opens Saturday, May 25, and continues through Sunday, June 23, featuring two world premiere productions specially commissioned for the company's 10th anniversary.

"Joruri," an opera by Minoru Miki with a libretto by Colin Graham, will be a major theatrical event. Derived from traditional Japanese puppet plays, it opens on Thursday, May 30; it tells the story of a blind narrator, his young wife and a young puppet master.

Graham will direct the opera; sets and costumes are by the Japanese theatrical designer, Seitaro Asakura who is designing for the opera stage for the first time in this country. "Joruri" is scored for orchestra and traditional Japanese stage instruments — koto, shamisen and shakuhachi.

Graham and Miki collaborated in 1981 to produce one of Opera Theatre's major achievements, the spectacular kabuki opera, "An Actor's Revenge."

Joseph Rescigno is the conductor; Faith Esham, Mallory Walker, John Brandstetter and Andrew Wentzel are featured in the cast.

"The Woodlanders," opening Thursday, June 13, was composed by Stephen Paulus, whose "The Postman Always Rings Twice" was commissioned by Opera Theatre for its 1982 season. Based on the novel by Thomas Hardy, it is set in a remote Wessex village; it describes the tragic consequences when the villagers encounter the world beyond their wooded horizons.

"The Woodlanders" libretto is by Colin Graham, who also collaborated with Paulus on "Postman" and will direct the world premiere. Carol Gale, Mark Thomsen, Lisbeth Lloyd and James McGuire are featured in the cast. The conductor is Richard Buckley; the sets are by Richard Isackes, and costumes by John Carver Sullivan.

John Nelson, Opera Theatre's music director, will conduct Mozart's "Idomeneo," which opens Wednesday, June 5. Fifth in the company's cycle of Mozart operas is the English translations by Andrew Porter, the opera is directed by Robert Carsen, who is making his St. Louis debut. The cast features Ashley Putnam, Sylvia McNair, Patricia Schuman and Michael Myers. This six-year Mozart Cycle has been underwritten by Emerson Electric Co.

The season opens May 25 with Rossini's "The Barber of Seville" conducted by Leonard Slatkin, music director of the St. Louis Symphony. Stella Zambalis debuts as Rosina, Mark DuBois, Robert Orth, Peter Strummer and Greg Ryerson are also featured.

The director is Sarah Ventura; sets and costumes are by Steven Rubin, who is making his St. Louis debut. Rubin is well-known as a designer for the New York City Ballet, the American Ballet Theater, the San Francisco Opera and the Santa Fe Opera.

"A Gaiety Night at the Opera" Saturday, June 22, will celebrate the company's 10th anniversary, featuring some of the singers who have appeared with Opera Theatre since 1976, including Sheri Greenwald, Pauline Tinsley, Eric Mills, Ashley Putnam, Frederick Burchinal and Michael Myers.

Opera Theatre General Director Richard Gades has announced the appointment of John Nelson as music director and Colin Graham as artistic director; Nelson last appeared with Opera Theatre as conductor of the 1983 production of "Beatrice and Benedict." Graham joined Opera Theatre as director of productions in 1979; he has been Opera Theatre's associate artistic director since 1981.

Gades will step down as general director in October 1985 but will remain as a consultant with the company through 1988.

Opera Theatre was founded in 1976 by Gades, who was then artistic administrator of the Santa Fe Opera. That year the company presented a 10-performance spring season of two full-length operas and a double bill on a budget of $129,000; since then it has become one of the major regional companies in the U.S.

The May-June season is still the focus of the year, but activities now include a short winter season of opera and operettas ("The Mikado" in 1984-85) and a substantial education/touring program, for a 1985 budget close to $3 million.

Some recent highlights have included Jonathan Miller's U.S. opera debut with the 1982 "Così Fan Tutte," Louise Nevelson's design debut with the 1984 "Orfeo," and a $100,000 National Endowment Challenge Grant in the fall of 1983, which was second in size among opera companies.

In 1983, Opera Theatre became the first American opera company ever to appear at the Edinburgh Festival, offering two operas ("Fennimore and Gerda" and "The Postman Always Rings Twice"), a Fringe production and a gala concert.

All Opera Theatre of St. Louis performances are sung in English; members of the Symphony Orchestra play in the pit. Evening performances begin at 8 (Sundays at 7) and Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2.

Again this year, audiences can enjoy picnics and refreshments before and after all performances at the Pavilion on the Green, which offers operators a chance to entertain friends and meet the cast informally.

Opera Theatre is a (funded) member of the Arts and Education Council of Greater St. Louis and receives financial assistance from the Missouri Arts Council, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

The box office telephone number is 1-314-561-0644.

Stella Zambalis to sing in 'Barber of Seville' opera

Susanne Mentzer, who had been under contract to sing the role of Rosina in Rossini's "The Barber of Seville," has been released from her contract to accept the same role with the Paris Opera. Mentzer made her debut with Opera Theatre of St. Louis during the 1983 season, singing the role of Beatrice in Berlioz's "Beatrice and Benedict."

Mezzo-soprano Stella Zambalis has been selected to sing Rosina in this Rossini opera, which opens Opera Theatre's 10th anniversary season on Saturday, May 25.

A finalist in the 1984 Metropolitan Opera national auditions, she will be making her debut with Opera Theatre. For the past three years, she has been a member of the Houston Opera Studio, singing a number of roles with the Houston Grand Opera, including one in the world premiere of Leonard Bernstein's "A Quiet Place."

She also has sung Suzuki in "Madame Butterfly" with the Minnesota Opera, and Zerlina in "Don Giovanni" with Opera Omaha. In noting this change of Rosina, General Director Richard Gades said, "While we are sorry not to have Miss Mentzer with us this season, we feel one of the hallmarks of Opera Theatre has been its support and encouragement of young American singers. We are pleased that she has the opportunity to debut at a major international opera house, while providing another young artist the opportunity to debut on our stage.

"The Barber of Seville" will be conducted by Leonard Slatkin, music director of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. Slatkin, who received a Grammy for the best orchestral recording of the year (Prokofiev's Fifth Symphony), returns to conduct Opera Theatre after his debut engagement in 1979 conducting Richard Strauss's "Ariadne on Naxos."

The opera opens Saturday, May 25, at 8 p.m. and will receive seven additional performances May 26 and 31 and June 6, 9, and 18 at 8 p.m. and June 15 and 23 at 2 p.m. Ticket information is available at 1-314-961-0644.

Featured in the cast of "The Barber of Seville," in addition to Zambalis, will be Canadian lyric tenor Mark DuBois as Count Almaviva, baritone Robert Orth as Figaro, bass-baritone Peter Strummer as Bartolo, mezzo-soprano Joanna Levy as Berta and bass-baritone Greg Ryerson as Basilio. Set and costume director is Stephen Rubin, and lighting designer is Peter Kaczorowski.

The opera opens Saturday, May 25, at 8 p.m. and will receive seven additional performances May 26 and 31 and June 6, 9, and 18 at 8 p.m. and June 15 and 23 at 2 p.m. Ticket information is available at 1-314-961-0644.

Lisa Wiser Shines

Warriorstie for fourth in conference meet

Flyerettes Win Easily

By GREGG OCHOA
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — Lisa Wiser has often times been overshadowed by her twin sister Lora's accomplishments on the cross country course.

But with Lora still recovering from an injury, Lisa Wiser stepped into the spotlight.

Wiser's performance — a second place in the long jump; fourth in the 400; and a personal best in a leg of the mile relay — was one of the few highlights for Granite City in the girls' Southwestern Conference track meet held Thursday at Belleville East.

The Warriors finished tied for fourth in the team standings with 20 points. East St. Louis walked away with team honors totaling 101 points. Belleville East was second and Belleville West took third.

"Teamwise, we didn't compete real well," said Granite City Coach Dave McClain. "We had three or four individuals who turned in personal bests. You are always proud and happy for them."

Wiser's second place in the long jump (15-feet 9-inches) was just an inch off of her best leap of the season. Deirda Grider of Belleville East took first at 16.5. Wiser had a leap past 16 feet, but the jump was not allowed because of a scratch.

In the open 400, Wiser ran a personal best of 1:02.35. It was good enough for fourth place.

"That was surprise, but a pleasant surprise," McClain said.

Wiser, too, was happy with her performance.

"I'm pretty proud of myself," she said shyly, reflecting on the day's events.

Wiser credits McClain's training suggestion as a part of her success.

"Ever since I have been running with the distance people, my times have been going down," she said. "It really helps your breathing."

But, maybe her effort had something to do with the gray and black bandana she wears tied around her right ankle.

"It's for good luck," Wiser said. "The first two times I wore it, I finished second in two quarter-miles."

"Why around her ankle?"

"I didn't want to tie it around my head. I thought I'd be different and put it around my ankle."

"Looking at it from another angle, maybe Wiser's effort was due to pure guts."

Her production wasn't too shabby for a someone who is suffering from a bad case of shin splints.

"They hurt real bad," admitted Wiser.

The contest would have been declared a draw had both teams completed the second overtime still tied.

Kuberski's shot was a cannon-ball like effort.

"She hit a bullet," said Warrior coach Mike Velloff of Kuberski, who possesses one of the hardest shots on the team. "It was an excellent shot. The goalie wasn't going to get it."

In Hazelwood West, the Warriors confronted a team that, "just kept coming at us," said Velloff. Hazelwood West outshot the Warriors 20 to 16.

The Warriors tallied first. Sherry Dawson scored after taking a lovely cross from Robin York 55 minutes into the first half to put the Warriors ahead, 1-0.

The score remained unchanged

Wiser, a junior. "And, they probably won't get better before track season ends.

Before each meet, Wiser must use ice on the shins to ease the pain. "It takes me about two minutes,"

Wiser explains, "I take the ice and rub it on my skin so it will freeze it."

Senior Debbie Brandt took second in the discus with a throw of 119-feet 5-inches. East's Lisa Walker set a new meet record with a toss of 121-feet 10-inches. She also holds the existing record (117-feet 4-inches).

For Brandt, the Madison County champion in the event, the second-place finish was bittersweet.

"I thought I had prepared myself for the competition that was going to be here," Brandt said. "I guess I didn't."

Conditions, however, were not that perfect for the disc as a strong crosswind was blowing in the competitors' face.

"There is nothing that could have dropped me 15-feet in one day. I was chopping my steps or something," she said of her technique.

Sophomore Terri Selph, a third place finisher in the county meet, was fifth at 97-10. In the shot put, Brandt placed fifth with a toss of 34-3/4.

until late in the match when Hazelwood West pushed in a goal to send the contest into overtime.

The visitors nearly pulled out victory in the first overtime period, but a shot struck the top crossbar of the Warriors' goal and came out.

Hazelwood West had other opportunities. Diana Takmaljan, who split goaltending duty with Michelle Jones, was called on to make several superb saves, punching would be scoring shots over the goal.

The Warriors also forced nine corner kicks, yet were unable to convert any into goals.

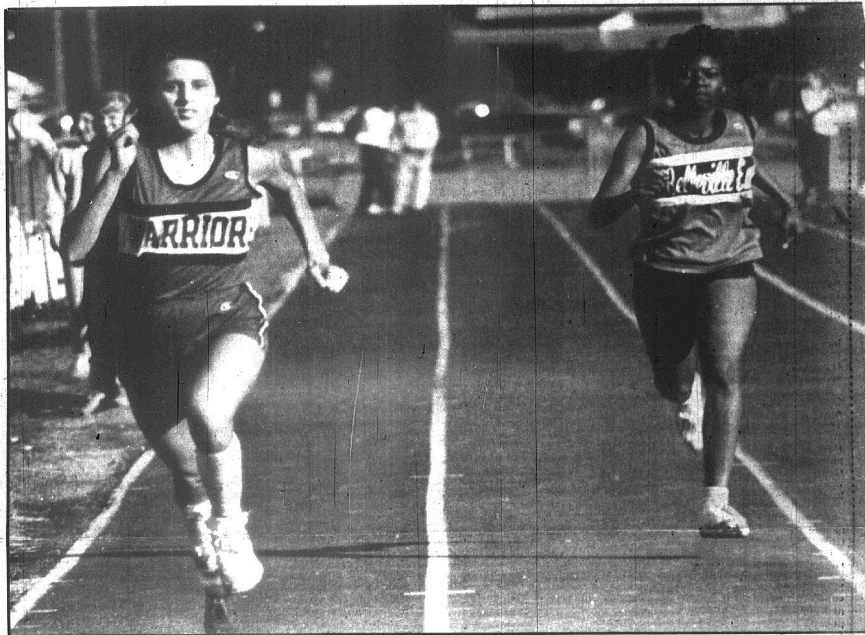

The fact both teams could manage just one goal for 89 minutes was also surprising, considering the extreme wind conditions.

"The wind did funny things with the ball," pointed out Velloff.

"The defense played really well to keep the ball out of the net," said Velloff, saluting the defense which includes starting fullbacks Maria Parra, Kathy Thornberry, Kathy Zepeda and Dave Schwartz.

But it was the right leg of Kuberski who sent the Warriors home happy and still untied.

In the running events, Granite City's highest finishers were third and fourth place.

Lora Wiser, battling back from an ankle injury, placed third in the 3,200 with a time of 13:07. Belleville East's Lisa Jones won the event in 11:30.

"Lora's time was encouraging in that it was the fastest that she has run that distance," McClain said.

In other events, the Warriors' Lori Pepe was fifth in the 3,200 (13:43); Melinda Pucker was fifth in the 200 low hurdles (38.3); and Marianne Finn placed fifth in the 1,600 (4:50.9). It was Finn's fastest time of the season in that race.

"She's a hard-nosed freshman," McClain said of Finn. "A tough competitor."

Overall, East St. Louis was the superior team on the field. The Flyerettes dominated, especially in the speed events.

Phoebe Washington won both the 100 and 200 dashes while Diane Dean took the 100 and 200 hurdles events. East St. Louis also won all the relay events.

The Flyers' Marjorie Gill took the shot put for the second consecutive year and Belleville East's Jane Abegg won the high jump at 5-2. It bettered the meet mark of 5-1 1/4.

The Lancers' Lisa Jones was a double winner taking the 1,600 and 3,200. She also finished third in the 800.

Collinsville's Pam Quarenghi was second in the 1,500 while Tammy Dill of Belleville West was second in the 3,200.

The best race of the day was the 3,200 meters. Jones trailed Dill for seven laps, allowing the West runner to break the wind. But, on the final lap, Jones took the lead and won the race in 11:30. Dill finished in 11:39.

Teamwise, McClain noted the Warriors were victimized by injuries. For example sprinter Wendy Knollman, who runs in four events, was scratched after aggravating a pulled hamstring muscle.

"We are very thin," the Warrior coach said. "There are just a lot of activities for the girls to do and it's tough (for them) to make a choice."

Granite City will have next week off to prepare for the Illinois High School Association sectionals Friday, May 10 at Belleville East. A berth at the state championships is at stake.

SIUE Update

Duenas hurls Cougars past Rivermen

By AL BARNES
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Tony Duenas, one third of the terrific trio pitching staff of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville baseball team, turned in another mound masterpiece here at Cougar Field Tuesday afternoon, as he led the Cougars by the Rivermen of the University of Missouri at St. Louis by a 9-1 score.

The other two members of the Cougars' terrific trio, Alton's Marty Jones and Collinsville's Pete Delkus, have accounted for 12 of the SIUE's non-season 26 victories. The lean 6-foot 6-inch and leathery Duenas collected his eighth victory against the Rivermen against one loss.

Enroute to his triumph over UMSL, Duenas, who is a sophomore from Belleville, Alton, fanned 11 batters, who makes him second to another Cougar standout lefty, Steve Malone of Marion, in season strikeouts.

Malone leads with 92, Duenas now has 71. Duenas moved Ron Middleton, who has 70, to third. Both Malone's and Middleton's records were set in the 1971 campaign.

Duenas' bid for a no-hitter against UMSL was broken up after two were out in the third frame. The visitors' leadoff man, left fielder Dan Gerry, swung late and singled to left.

Next up, John O'Brien, hit the second pitch safely through the box to center, but Mike Robertson of Granite City, in center for the Cougars, fiddled the ball cleanly and the runner couldn't advance beyond second.

In the fourth, the Rivermen's cleanup hitter and catcher, Scott Hyde, took advantage of a high fast ball by Duenas and blasted the ball almost to Pough Road. And, spoiled Duenas' bid for a shutout. Hyde, incidentally, is the top pro prospect in the St. Louis collegiate metropolitan area. He has hit 15 fourbaggers this season for Coach Jim Dix's Rivermen.

However, the other three times Duenas faced Hyde, he fanned him twice and walked him once.

The already mentioned Robertson, who, incidentally, has had a contingent of pro scouts following for the last month, was one of three Cougar batters who made life miserable for the UMSL team. He was 3-for-5 and drove in three runs. In fact, it was his clutch double in the opening inning, which got the Cougars on the board first.

Collinsville's Steve Blumner, an All-American candidate of SIUE at third base, had a perfect day at bat, collecting a trio of singles and a triple.

Stanton High's Rich Fletcher raised his hitting average to near the 300 mark as he blasted out a double and a triple in five trips. Counting an error and a fielder's choice, he was on base four of five trips. And, score three runs. Right fielder Tom Klenke's one singe in three trips, accounted for six of SIUE eleven hits.

Coach Gary (Bo) Collins' SIUE team has now won 14 of their last 16 games, one of the two no victories was in fact a 5-5 tie up at Illinois State University at Normal last week.

And, Collins will always cry about that tie. His boys had lost the first game of a twirl and in the second game, with the score tied, 5-5, the Cougars loaded the bases with Robertson at bat.

And, the sky opened up and the rains came. It poured so bad, says

Collins, that there wasn't a chance to finish the game, and very probably another victory.

This weekend, the Cougars will be on the road, with a pair of twirls Saturday and Sunday against the Leathernecks of Western Illinois University at Macomb.

Then, after a single game in St. Louis next Wednesday against Maryville College, the crucial, do-or-die games against Lewis University of Joliet will be at Cougar Field Saturday and Sunday, May 11th and 12th.

The outcome of these four games will decide whether or not SIUE makes it to the regional tournament.

EDWARDSVILLE — The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball team has signed two more recruits.

The Cougars last week announced that James Jappa and Al Alexander, both of whom played on the junior college level in 1984, have signed letters of intent.

Jappa, a guard, led Kansas City Kansas Junior College in both scoring and rebounding. He pumped in 19.3 points and averaged 5.6 rebounds per game last year. Alexander, a 5-8 point guard, led from Illinois Central Junior College. He averaged 10.9 points and eight assists per game while leading ICC to a 24-7 record and a share of the Arrowhead Conference championship.

A former all-stater from Boonville Manual High School, Alexander led ICC in assists last year and set a school record for most in game (15).

Ecstasy And Agony Alton nips GCHS netters

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER

GRANITE CITY — What a difference a set — six games of tennis — can make.

That difference became crystal clear Friday afternoon to more than a few tennis players and enthusiasts at Granite City High School's home courts on Grand Ave.

The Warriors saw first-hand both the ecstasy and the agony Friday as they hosted Southwestern Conference rival, the Alton Redbirds. After three and a half hours of tennis, the Warriors lost the pairing to the Redbirds 4-3.

The ecstasy came about 5 p.m. as the Warriors first singles player, Rob Lombardi, battled back from a 5-1 defeat in the second set to upend the Redbirds' Todd Volland.

Lombardi, a junior, earned a 6-2 first set victory over Volland before succumbing to the 6-1 second-set loss.

Then, after a brief, five-minute session with Warrior coach Dick Harmon after the second set to re-establish his composure, Lombardi battled back to dominate the Redbird No. 1 player with his serve-and-volley style to clinch a Warrior win in first singles.

"It was easy," Lombardi said afterwards. "I talked to coach regrouped and went in wanting to win. What I didn't do was lose my head when I made a mistake. That's important, not losing your cool, your composure. It worked for me anyway."

So much for the ecstasy, now the agony.

Ironically enough, Lombardi was involved in that aspect of the pairing as well.

Two hours into the pairing, the Warriors were on the verge of scoring perhaps their biggest upset of the season, with first and second singles remaining. Granite City needed but one victory in either match to clinch a team victory.

But it wasn't to be. Paired with teammate Jerry Lakin in first doubles, Lombardi managed a 6-4 victory over the Redbird duo of Volland and Craig Sun. But, it was then that things began to slide and the agony began to set in.

The Warriors dropped the second set 4-6 and from then on, things got increasingly worse.

By now, the Warriors' second doubles team of Chris Chenevert and Dave Aerne had already lost to Alton's Kris Grabner and Chris Milford 6-1, 6-2. If Granite City still had a chance at an upset it had to happen in first singles.

Evened up a one set each, the third doubles set began after a brief pep talk by both teams' coaches. Harmon and Redbird coach Roger Schleper.

Tied at one set apiece at the start of the third set, the Redbirds wasted little time in taking an early 4-1 lead. Volland held serve. Lombardi held serve. Craig narrowly held serve, but then he and Volland were able to break Lakin's serve to take the three-game lead.

Down, but not out, the Warriors battled back, winning the next two games to close within one game 3-4. The Warrior duo managed to break Craig's serve and Lombardi held to cut the Warrior deficit.

After the change of courts, the Redbirds plucked the Warrior comeback as they went to a 5-3 lead.

Serving to save the set, Lakin battled off two deuce games to eventually win the ninth game to put the Warriors back to within one, 5-4.

But, eventually, a Warrior upset wasn't meant to be.

Volland, used his 6-foot 1-inch frame to power the serve past the Warrior duo to win the 10th game, the set, and ultimately, the pairing.

"We came pretty close. Pretty darn close to upsetting them," Harmon said after the final match gathering tennis balls.

"We just couldn't get over some of our mistakes. It's pretty tough to beat your opponent when you get down on yourself. I think Robbie found out today what remaining composed can do for your game," Harmon said.

"Sure, we're disappointed with the loss, but it wasn't one that we were really expected to win. Seven and three coming in, they were favored."

Friday's tennis action rounded out a week of three pairings for the Warriors. On Monday, Granite City blew Bethalto off the court, winning 9-0.

Then on Wednesday, the Warriors played a tougher Wood River squad and managed to come away with a victory there as well, winning 4-3.

The week's activities improved the Warriors' record to 6-6 on the season while Friday's win improved Alton's record to 8-3.

During last weekend's Belleville East Invitational Tennis Tournament, two Warriors played. Lombardi, playing first singles, lost to the tournament's No. 2 seed Mike Carr of DeSmet in the first round, but came back through the consolation bracket to clinch fifth place.

After falling to Carr 7-6, 7-6, Lombardi won his next three matches before tying with Eric Moran of Edwardsville for fifth place. Due to impending darkness, both received fourth-place awards.

Like Lombardi, Chenevert also finished fifth in the prestigious tournament. After dropping his first match, Chenevert went on to win his next four matches to clinch his honor.

Overall, the Warriors finished 10th among the 16 teams entered. West won the tourney followed by DeSmet which finished second.

Lauer is Stars' seventh signee

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Executive Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY — Things are beginning to shape up for Larry Lauer and the Granite City Center soccer team.

Petri, who fractured an ankle in March playing volleyball, has shed his cast and is just about to do the same with his crutches. As for the Stars' soccer team, it, too, is shaping up. Through recruitment, Petri is rapidly sculpturing the Stars into what he hopes will be a viable soccer power this fall.

The Stars' latest acquisition is David Lauer, 17, of Troy. Lauer, a midfielder, played at Triad High School last year and was voted the Knights' most valuable player.

Lauer's totals last year for the Knights were nine goals and four assists. The Knights, who are coached by Granite City South graduate Steve Garland, finished the 1984 season with a 9-8-1 record.

Lauer comes to Stars with considerable soccer experience. A four-year starter for the Knights, he has been an integral part of Triad's program during four of its five-year existence.

"I'm pretty quick. I've got good reaction to the ball and I think I've got good foot speed," Lauer said. "I think you're most impressed him."

(Petri) is my speed."

Lauer, who's 5-feet-8-inches tall and weighs 155 pounds, runs the 50-yard dash in 5.5 seconds.

"We're always looking for speed on the forward line or in the middle," Petri said. "I saw him play under at Soccer for Fun and outdoors in Collinsville. And, yes, that's what impressed me most about him."

"Speed is something that can't be taught and it can't be trained. You can work on skills, dribbling and just about everything else. But speed is God-given," Petri said. "It's something a person is born with."

In addition to Lauer's speed, the Stars' coach said he was also impressed with Lauer's instinctive ability to sense where the ball will be at a given time.

"Speed and instincts. Those are things that every coach looks for."

And, they're the main reasons I recruited him," Petri said coach of Lauer.

Petri said Lauer does not have a set position on the Stars squad, but he will probably switch from mid-field to forward.

"Right now I'm looking at Dave (Tony) McFarlin in the forward line. Their speed up front can make for quite an effective forward line. Right now, I'm just thinking of some potentials."

McFarlin, like Lauer, is another of Petri's freshman recruits.

In addition to Lauer, Petri has signed Craig Dellamano, a senior from Metro-East Lutheran High School in Edwardsville.

Dellamano, perhaps the best on the Metro-East Lutheran squad, will find himself as a forward-striker for the Stars.

Lauer and Dellamano are the Stars' seventh and eighth recruits of the season.

Success ratio: Best method for calculating deer harvest

For the past three years, geographic analyses of the Illinois white-tailed deer harvest based on a cartographic technique known as a two-variable mapping have been presented in the April issue of Outdoor Highlights.

The principle of this type of mapping is to simultaneously project two important data sets to measure deer harvest, i.e., total kill per county and the hunter/success ratio per county.

This analysis summarizes deer hunting in Illinois during 1984, compares traditional types of deer harvest mapping with the two-variable technique, examines the overall pattern of deer harvest in Illinois, and contrasts this year's map with the maps prepared for the three previous years.

In 1984, it was legal to firearm hunt for deer in 99 of Illinois' 102 counties. During the split six-day season, a total of 28,402 deer were harvested in "regular" areas by 79,834 hunters. In addition, 814 deer were taken by 1,515 hunters on "special areas," such as the Joliet Arsenal and Crab Orchard. In this study, deer killed on "special areas," as well as hunters with permits for those areas, will be excluded.

Traditionally, maps illustrating deer harvest in Illinois and elsewhere are based on either the total number of deer harvested per county or the hunter/success ratio, which is calculated by dividing the number of deer harvested in a county into the number of permits issued for that specific county.

While each type of map is useful for examining deer harvest, both present problems when greater insight is desired in terms of the overall quality of hunting.

For instance, a map showing total deer kill by county would prominently display Pope County (No. 99 on adjacent map) in the extreme southeastern part of the state. Pope County has traditionally been acknowledged as one of the premier deer hunting counties in Illinois. During 1984, Pope County ranked fourth in deer kill with a total of 1,050 and would appear prominently on a map solely illustrating harvest. However, examination of the hunter/success ratio (H/S ratio equals 4.10) reveals that Pope County ranks 92nd out of 99 counties open to deer hunting, a fact which would be totally obscured. Conversely, a map depicting hunter/success ratio would reveal that Lawrence County (No. 80 on map) has a favorable ratio (2.26), ranking sixth in the state. With respect to total deer harvest, however, Lawrence County ranks 74th, with a kill of 189.

The two-variable map allows coincidental viewing of both variables—the total kill and hunter/success ratio—and provides greater insight for analyzing deer harvest in Illinois.

By re-examining Pope County, one can observe that while it ranks in the highest category for total deer kill (greater than 400) it is simultaneously in the poorest position from a hunter/success standpoint (more than 3.6).

A comparable reverse situation exists for Edgar County (No. 61), which placed in the best category for hunter/success (second overall with a H/S ratio of 2.09) while its total deer harvest of 182 ranked 58th in the state and was in the second lowest category. Consequently, two-variable mapping helps overcome limitations of previously mentioned maps.

The overall pattern of deer harvest in Illinois suggests that hunting is at its best in three contiguous counties located north of the confluence of the Illinois and Mississippi rivers. Pike County (No. 51) was the outstanding deer hunting county in Illinois for the fifth consecutive year, ranking first in hunter/success (1.81). Adams County (No. 41) ranked third in deer kill (1,050) and 11th in hunter/success (2.30), and Brown County (No. 43) placed ninth in kill with 608 and seventh in hunter/success (2.26). Jo Daviess County (No. 11), in the extreme northwest corner of Illinois, ranked second in deer harvest (1,081) and 16th in hunter/success (2.36). Data for two contiguous counties in southwestern Illinois, Perry and Jackson (Nos. 88 and 92, respectively), also indicated favorable deer hunting.

An area of high hunter/success ratios, but of relatively low harvest, has continued to manifest in southeast Illinois, comprising the following contiguous counties: Edgar (No. 61), Clark (No. 68), Jasper (No. 73), Crawford (No. 74) and Lawrence (No. 80). Respectively, the hunter/success ratios for these counties were 2.09, 2.11, 2.30, 2.19, and 2.26, placing each in the state's top ten.

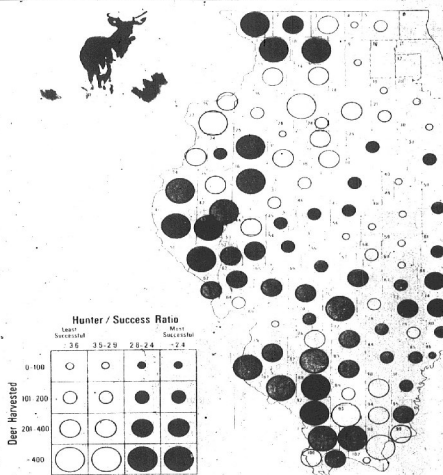

The poorest deer hunting areas exist in the east grain farming regions of east-central Illinois and in counties with large population centers, or those experiencing urban expansion. For example, Will County (No. 20), south of metropolitan Chicago, ranked last in hunter/success (5.18) and 97th in kill (44).

Kankakee County (No. 30), which lies directly south of Will, was 97th in hunter/success (4.74) and 96th in harvest (47). Ford County (No. 40) registered the lowest deer kill in the state (32). Madison County (No. 69), which contains the population centers of Alton and Granite City, ranked 91st in hunter/success (4.10) and 96th in harvest (96).

One significant change regarding this year's map in relation to map from the three previous years must be noted. Statistics for the 1984 season indicate that deer hunting in Illinois reached its highest peak in terms of both harvest and hunter/success. A total of 3,950 more deer were killed last year on "regular" areas than during 1983, and 6,617 more were taken than in 1982.

Furthermore, the hunter/success ratio has improved each year for the state as a whole (exclusive of "special areas") from 3.84 in 1981, 3.54 in 1982, 3.17 in 1983 to 2.81 during 1984. Since the overall harvest and hunter/success statistics have continually improved since the first publication of these analyses, it became necessary to modify the numerical categories on the accompanying map in order to better display the distribution of the data.

NOTE: Data for 814 deer harvested from refuges and special areas not shown on map.

HOW TO INTERPRET A TWO-VARIABLE MAP: Counties are classified both in terms of number of deer harvested and hunter/success ratio. For example, 2556 permits were issued in Jo Daviess County and 1081 deer were harvested. The success ratio was 2.36 (1081/458). On the map legend this county's rank is represented by a large, solid circle located in the fourth row (>400 deer harvested) and fourth column (<2.4 permits issued for each deer taken).

Patterson, a 1981 graduate of Granite City North High School, blasted his 19th homerun of the season for the Southeast Missouri State University baseball team. He broke the record in the Indians' win over Harris-Stowe.

The 19 homeruns is also a school record for most in a season. The last SEMO player to hit 18 homeruns was Steve Williams.

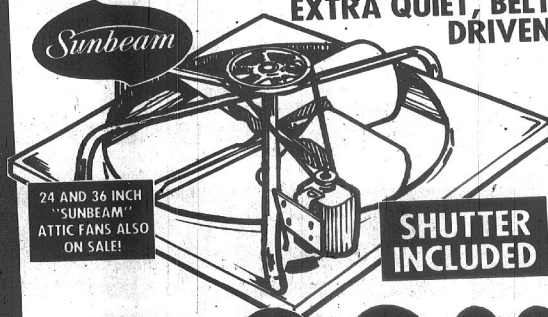

A senior first baseman, Patterson is hitting .364 and has 43 RBIs. Last season, he hit a lofty 440 with nine homeruns.
